MEMBERSHIP CASH DRAW – RULES & CONDUCT

20 closed boxes numbered one to twenty. Sixteen of the boxes contain a cash prize which is accompanied by the picture of a happy chicken. Three of the twenty boxes contain a picture of a fox with no cash prize attached. One of the boxes contain a Rooster which if obtained prevents one fox attack.

The winning member drawn must initially choose 3 boxes to open. If all boxes opened contain chickens or a rooster the entrant has reached a safe level at which a cash prize can be claimed. If this safe level is achieved the attached values of those 3 selected boxes accumulate and the value can be claimed by the member in cash.

Should the member select or open a box at any time that contains a fox, then the member instantly wins $50 worth of membership reward credits which will be placed onto their membership account. If a Rooster is revealed then the member may use this pick to cancel a fox reveal (extra chance) and may continue on until they hit another Fox or decide to take the current cash prize.

If the winning member has reached the initial safety level then they can either decide to play on or attempt to accumulate more membership draw cash or they can take the current amount standing. If the member decides to play on then they only need to open 1 box at a time from this time onwards. Once they choose to play on then the standing amount already accumulated will alter depending on the result of the contents on the next box opened.

If they open a box with a chicken then the amount attached to that box will accumulate onto the current amount achieved. If they open a box with a fox in it then all previous amounts of membership cash is forfeited and they instantly win $50 of membership reward points onto their members account.

The member will be asked at every safe level achieved if they would like to play on or take the current membership cash amount they have accumulated at that time.

If the member decides not to chance their current win then they will be paid the amount of money they have accumulated throughout the draw in cash, and will be paid in full on the night by the Duty Manager on duty.
